Beth Simone Noveck Bio

Beth Simone Noveck serves as New Jersey's first Chief AI Strategist, where she leads efforts to help the government use artificial intelligence to grow the economy, improve services, and enhance public engagement. She is an active member of the national community of state AI leaders and runs InnovateUS, which delivers free AI training to states and cities across the United States. She previously served in the White House as head of open government and advised Chancellor Angela Merkel and Prime Minister David Cameron on government modernization. Her newest book is Reboot: The Race to Save Democracy with AI that will appear with Yale Press this summer.